

The Tarr Steps Story

EXMOOR

NATIONAL PARK

Tarr Steps is an outdoor area with a special bridge, a river, woods and meadows

This means it is a place where I can spend time in the countryside

When I arrive to visit Tarr Steps

I might see:

The car park

A pub called the Tarr Farm Inn

A building made of stone with toilets inside.

An information board

When I visit Tarr Steps

I might see:

The old bridge
called Tarr Steps

A river

A wooden footbridge

A metal 'tree catcher'. This is to stop trees
which may have fallen into the river from going any further

When I visit Tarr Steps

I might see:

Trees

Bluebells during the Spring

Deer

Grey squirrels

When I visit Tarr Steps

I might hear:

Birds

The water in the river

The wind blowing

Cars driving through the shallow part of the water to get to the other side. This is called a 'ford'.

When I visit Tarr Steps

I might touch or feel:

A tree with coins pressed into the trunk. This is called the Money Tree.

Mud

A stone path

Moss

When I visit Tarr Steps

I might taste:

Food and drink from the pub if we go there.

Ice cream

Honey

When I visit Tarr Steps

I might smell:

Honeysuckle

Wild garlic

Most of all Tarr Steps is a place where I can enjoy time outdoors

Some additional information for my visit

- This Sensory Story starts from Exmoor National Park Tarr Steps pay and display car park TA22 9PY. Note, ignore sat nav directions and approach from the Winsford Hill side (the B3223 between Dulverton and Exford) and follow signs to Tarr Steps
- This car park has public toilets
- There are refreshments available from Tarr Farm Inn and there is an ice cream van in season
